B. PRESENTATIONS

1. Susy Walsh – Resource Centre Update

Susy Walsh presented:

- The pilot aims to provide students with a small, quiet setting to develop essential life skills, including social-emotional regulation, leadership, and communication with the goal of transferring these skills back into the regular classroom and home life.
- Students have shown significant growth in managing their behavior and interactions:

- Moving from physical outbursts to using words, deep breathing and waiting turns.
 - Better cooperation, sharing, and problem-solving among peers.
- The program bridges the gap between school and home:
 - Students are learning the neuroscience of their own brains, helping them understand why they feel certain emotions.
 - Parents report a reduction in “shutting down” during homework and an increased ability for students to step away and refresh rather than reacting aggressively.
- The pilot is successfully creating a “circle of support” that empowers students to move from frustration and silence to independence and active participation in their communities.

2. Jim Di Gioia – Annual Special Education Plan Review

Jim Di Gioia presented:

- An outline of the mandatory annual review of the Special Education Plan for Niagara Catholic, ensuring it remains compliant with the Education Act.
